A few years ago, my practice was doing well but wasn't quite where I wanted it to be. We were stuck at a productivity plateau, we were disorganized and I wanted to increase the patient flow. It wasn't that anything was drastically wrong. Other doctors told me they'd be more than satisfied with the practice I had. But I wanted to take things to the next level and knew I needed help to make that happen.

I looked into local consultants thinking I'd have someone come in and provide consultation and training services. But they just didn't offer what I knew it would take to improve my practice in the way I wanted to. So when Silkin Management Group called me, I decided to pursue their management services as they have a reputation for creating ideal practices.

Silkin started by helping me to identify my goals and really map out how to achieve them. It seemed that I had been doing everything in the office myself. I was finally able break through the barrier of delegating tasks and really training the staff. Now things get done to my standard without me having to check on them all the time.

The result has been amazing. We are better organized so now the practice operates virtually stress free. We are seeing more patients and are able to do more for each of them. Our productivity has increased by 50% yet I'm spending less time in the office than ever before.

I realized that I needed someone who could understand what I was trying to accomplish and give the tools to help make it happen. For me, Silkin was the answer I was looking for.

You don't have to settle for a practice that is under performing. You CAN make the improvements you've always strived for but didn't think were possible. All it takes is a little help from trained professionals who know how to help you make it happen.

Find out about the free practice evaluation offered by Silkin Management Group and take the first step in creating the practice you deserve. You'll be glad you did.

Sincerely,
